

Aster & Iron — Brand Knowledge Base

Everything true about this business, written down so it can be cited.

Fictional. Prepared as a test document for SparkSocial — every name, number and address below is invented.

What we are

A jewellery and accessories workshop in Leith, Edinburgh. We make silver and brass pieces by hand in small batches, take commissions, and remodel inherited jewellery into something the owner will actually wear.

Opened October 2017, by Nadia Aster.

Staff 3 — two benchworkers, one who runs the shopfront and the commissions book.

Studio 14 Tolbooth Lane, open Wed–Sat 10am–5pm. Bench visible from the shop floor.

The facts a post might need to cite

| Claim | The actual number | Last checked |

| --- | --- | --- |

| Pieces made per month | 60–75 | Sept 2026 |

| Commissions completed, to date | 840 | Sept 2026 |

| Commission turnaround | 4–6 weeks | ongoing |

| Remodels of inherited pieces, to date | 210 | Sept 2026 |

| Silver source | recycled sterling, UK refiner | since 2019 |

| Brass source | Caledon Metals, Glasgow | since 2017 |

| Repair turnaround | 10 working days | ongoing |

| Hallmarking | Edinburgh Assay Office, every silver piece over 7.78g | ongoing |

Do not round 840 up to "thousands" or 60–75 up to "hundreds". If a number is out of date, say the month it was true.

What we sell

- Ready-to-wear — earrings, signet and stacking rings, cuffs, fine chain.
£45–£320.

- Commissions — from £180. Four to six weeks. Two fittings included.

- Remodels — inherited or broken pieces reworked. Quoted after a bench appointment; we say no if the original is worth more intact.

- Repairs — resizing, restringing, stone resetting. £25–£90.

- Accessories — brass keyrings, collar pins, hair slides. £18–£60.

How we talk

Plain, specific, unhurried. We name the metal, the weight and the maker on every piece, because that is the difference between what we do and what a chain shop does.

We assume the reader is buying something they intend to keep. That means we talk about wear, repair and resizing as normal parts of owning a piece, not as failures.

We do not use urgency. Nothing here is running out.

Things we do not say

- Never "investment piece" or "will only go up in value". We are not selling an asset and we cannot know that.
- Never "ethically sourced" as a bare phrase — say what the source actually is: recycled sterling from a UK refiner, brass from Caledon Metals.
- Never "conflict-free" about anything other than stones we can document. Most of our stones are customer-supplied and we do not know their history.
- Never "handmade" about the chain, which we buy in. Say "hand-finished" where that is what happened.
- Never "one of a kind" about a batch piece. Say the batch size.
- Never "luxury". We are a workshop with a shopfront.
- No urgency language: "last chance", "selling fast", "limited time".

Proof we can show

- The bench, in use. Visible from the shop floor, so filming it needs no staging.
- Raw stock — sheet silver, brass rod, offcuts in the scrap tin for refining.
- A commission at each of its stages: wax, cast, filed, polished, hallmarked.
- The Edinburgh Assay Office hallmark under a loupe.
- Before-and-after of a remodel, where the customer has agreed in writing.
- The commissions book, which is a physical ledger.

Customer faces and names require written consent, held in the commissions book. Absent that, show hands and the piece only.
